Thinking Out Loud

H. M. L.

The Old Timer blew into the office and without an invitation occupied the chair reserved for guests. "I have been listening," said he, "to the last one of Mike Brickley's lectures. He's a machine gun and his ammunition consists of facts mixed with some opinions. I can't question his "facts" without doing a lot of reading and my eyes a'int so good as they used to be.

"But when it comes to opinions I can go about as strong as he can. You don't have to know such a terrible lot to have strong opinions. In fact some ignoramuses have got stronger opinions than Henry Ford. And after hearing what Mr. Brickley said about Germany the other night, I am going to air a few of mine, and if what your circulation is what you say it is, Mr. Editor, and you print this, it will have a bigger audience than Mike's".

"Now when I was a kid, I was fond of tramping and hunting. I hunted in season and out regardless. My folks should have known something about what I was up to, but as a matter of fact I was hard to keep track of. One time I was duck shooting and got pinched for trespassing, and my father had to pay a fine of $20 on my account, and after that he kept track of me. And I have lived neighbor to quarrelsome families, and I blamed the whole family for the disturbance and nuisance they made, though maybe a majority of them was as law abiding and peace loving as I am.

"Now when a government lets its people run wild as Mexico let Villa do just before we got into the last European fracas, who do you hold responsible? You hold the government responsible don't you? And when the Kaiser with his military maniacs, who were always toasting "der tag", finally led his people into a world war, you hold the whole kit and bilin', people and government, responsible. What else can you do in a practical world?

"The Good Book says that the way of the transgressor is hard. It sure is in both big and little affairs. When Kaiser hollered: 'Vorwarts', and sent his army trudging into Belgium, to my notion he was a transgressor, and if the German people had no better sense than to obey such an order from such a poor specimen of a leader as the Kaiser was, they just can't escape their responsibility. They went into the war fat and well fed. the country never more prosperous, owning almost a third of Africa, and colonies here, there and everywhere over the globe, and when they quit, they were lean and starving and the peace treaties later sheared off not only their colonies, but various juicy bits from the perimeter of Germany itself.

"The allies had had a big scare. Germany had boasted that they were the master race of the world and had tried to make good the boast. Naturally enough when the allies started to prune Germany, they sawed off those parts such as Alsace-Lorraine and a portion of Silesia, because these were parts which supplied war strength in iron and coal. In fact all the cutting was done to curtail Germany's strength in war, while as a matter of fact it handicapped Germany both in peace and war, and never changed the disposition of its leadership one iota, because the German government today still believes it is the world's master race.

"My own idea," concluded the Old Timer, "is that armaments are the colossal evidence of human fear. The world is nervous and jittery and like the men that built our new towns in the West, all nations carry guns because other nations do. In the abstract the only road to world peace is free trade, just as Mike Brickley says. If we would all aim and pull for free trade, in time to come, mere land area and colonies would mean nothing because the products of different parts of the globe would be open to all nations on equal terms.

"While I have been a life long Republican, set in my ways of thinking, I have changed to this extent, that I believe Secretary Hull is right, and that the way to peace, is to reduce tariffs and keep on reducing them until they are gone. For what's the use of owning land, if you can buy at reasonable prices whatever it grows when you need it and as you need it. If Germany could buy freely what it needs and wants, there would be no Hitler and no fear of Germany today. And this goes for Il Duce and Italy. But under the present system we simply have to hold nations responsible for their leaders, and their leaders responsible for their people.

"So far as war is concerned, one guess is as good as another's, but our own neutrality act may keep us out of the next one. It is really a power handed to the President to embargo. The League of Nations used the same weapon in the Italio-Ethiopian war but they did not put it into use soon enough and thoroughly enough to do any good. If Great Britain, France, Scandinavia and the United States will shut off all supplies from the belligerents in the next war, providing of course these nations are out of it, it will die down just as fire dies when it is smothered for lack of oxygen."

Funeral Board Will Continue Probe of W. R. Jefford & Son

The State Board of Funeral Directors and Embalmers in its session at Oakland Saturday decided several matters which it had previously taken under advisement in its hearings at Grass Valley and Marysville.

The hearing at Marysville involved the licenses of Hogle and Byrne, Inc., funeral directors at Yuba City, and at Marysville, and the board found that Hogle and Byrne, Inc., were guilty of violation of the funeral directors and embalmers law in burying bodies of indigent persons without compliance with the requirements of Yuba county as to such burials, and that said firm was also guilty of violating the funeral directors and embalmers law in burying dead bodies at Yuba City without death certificates and burial permits as required by the law.

The sentence imposed by the board was a suspension of their licenses for a period of twelve months i each case, but eleven months of this sentence was suspended in each case on the good behavior of the licensees. The outcome of the board's decision is that the establishment at Yuba City and at Marysville will actually be closed for a period of thirty days, and the funeral establishments will be on probation for a full period of one year.

The embalmer's license of Lawrence F. Otis was suspended for a period of one year. Lawrence F. Otis at the time of the violations committed by Hogle and Byrne, Inc., of which violations they were found guilty by the board, was the secretary and treasurer of Hogle and Otis, Inc., and the firm's name at that time wos Hogle, Byrne and Otis, Inc.

Another case decided by the board in Oakland was the case of W. R. Jefford and Son at Grass Valley, with funeral director's establishments at Grass Valley and Nevada City, Nevada county.

The board ordered the cancellation of the funeral dicertor's license of said firm at Nevada City, and ordered a further investigation of the charges against the firm for violations of the law committed by the establishment at Grass Valley.

The board conducted an extensive hearing of charges against the Russel Funeral Home, Inc., at Lakeport during its session last Wednesday week in that place. As a result of the investigation, the board ordered that a formal complaint be filed against the Russell Funeral Home, Inc., for violations of the Funeral Directors and Embalmers Law in connection with the false and fraudulent claims as a funeral director, and the use of indecent and profane language in the presence of dead human bodies during funeral services.

The embalmer's licenses of Millicent B. Russell and Archie Russell were also involved in the charges which the board instructed be filed against the Russell Funeral Home, Inc., and its owners and managers.

STUDENT BODY SOON TO ELECT YEAR'S OFFICERS

Nominations are now in order for the 1937-1938 student body officers of the Nevada City high school and are apparently going strong. Although all the nominations have not been made final yet as twenty signers of a candidate is necessary for the nomination there are quite a few "suggested" names and the petitions are being filled rapidly. The student body officers will be elected next week. The requirements for the offices are: For president, must have a "B" average in three years of high school and must be a member of next years' senior class; the vice-president may be a junior or senior and must also have a "B" average. The secretary and treasurer must have C plus averages.

The retiring officers are: John Harding, senior, president; Ruth Curnow, senior, vice president; Alice Jean Graham, junior, secretary; and Fred Garrison, senior, treasurer.

The student body accountants are appointed by the commercial teacher. Next year they will be Madge Pianezzi and June Hawke. The retiring accountants are Catherine Stephens and Fred Garrison who have filled this position for two years since 1935.

ALCALDE MINE AT DEADMAN'S FLAT

About two weeks ago, E. I. Best. Stockton tractor manufacturer acquired the Alcalde Mine at Deadman's Flat noted for its "jewelry" ore production. Dewatering is under way. Several years ago a new shaft was sunk to the 735 foot level. M. J. McGuire is acting manager.

CAT CAPTURES SNAKES, SCARES HIS MISTRESS

Hunting season is on for "Snooky" big black and white bod-tailed cat of Mrs. Clara C. Scarfe on Boulder street. Tuesday he came up from Little Deer Creek at the foot of the Scarfe garden dragging a big live gopher snake by the head. He brought it up the back stairs and into the house releasing it to show his prowess as a hunter. As Mrs. Scarfe came into the living room she saw the cat sitting proudly and a small rug crawling away from the cat. Then out came the snake. Thoroughgly frightened Mrs. Scarfe ran out in the front yard and called. One of the drivers for the Nevada County Lumber company stopped and killed the snake.

In about an hour Snooky came trudging in with a baby rabbit and laid it at the feet of Mrs. Scarfe who tried to revive it, but it soon died. Later in the afternoon this furry fighter had a boxing match with a large gopher which had bitten him. Last year this cat brought in a big snake and it got loose, slithered under a bed and crawled about in the springs, hissing furiously until a neighbor came in and killed it.

TELEPHONE DIRECTORIES ARE BEING DISTRIBUTED

Distrbiution of new telephone directories is being made here this week by the Pacific Telephone and Telegraph Company.

The manager reports that there are now 772 phones in service in Nevada City as compared with 750 phones lost year at this time, and that no phones are being disconnected due to people leaving town.

Bound in green cover, the new edition is thicker by approximately sixteen pages than the issue it replaces, according to Mrs. Summers, local manager.

Approximately 70,000 books were being distributed to 488 towns and communities in eleven Northern California counties.

The local manager urged people to remove valuable papers and notations from the gray covered books before exchanging them for new copies.

MISS JONES RESIGNS

Miss Nancy Jones has resigned her position on the Nevada City high school faculty. A graduate of Stanford University, she majored in dramatics and expects to find a post where she can teach this subject.

CITY HALL SOON TO BE DEDICATED

The city council last night met for the first time officially in the new city hall. Supervisor Cary Arbogast appeared before the board with a proposal to the city's half interest in the rock crusher which is located at the Hoge dump, along with the city's interest in the bins, screens and motor.

Lloyd Dudley, nominated Wednesday evening to be the next fire chief to succeed Tony Rore, exhhibited a new fire siren to cost $40. After the board had heard a demonstration of its nerve shattering sound. they approved its purchase.

W. H. Griffith, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, asked for a postponement in moving the chamber from its present quarters on Commercial street to the room provided for it in the new city hall. The board stated that there was no hurry.

Dr. C. W. Chapman suggested that the Native Sons take general charge of the dedication of the new city hall, the date for which was tentatively set for June 14.

City Clerk George Calanan stated that a bronze plaque to be placed in the front of the building had been ordered. It will bear this legend:

ROTARY CLUB HEARS PLANS FOR HIGH SCHOOL

H. E. Kjorlie, principal of the high school, yesterday gave an interesting address before the Rotary club at luncheon, regarding the recently constructed addition to the high school, its present needs and future plans.

Four new class rooms and a fine roomy gymnasium have been added. the football field has been completed, two tennis courts built, and the area east of the school building filled and leveled.

But there still remains the fact that the original plan has not been completed. The gymnasium which also was to serve as an auditorium lacks a stage. The work shops for handicraft subjects has yet to be built, and bleachers for spectators in the gymnasium. The cost of these improvements is expected to be between $15,000 and $20,000. There is landscaping to be done, and it is hoped to grow turf on the football gridiron. The students themselves earn during a year a considerable sum which is devoted to improvements.

The speaker declared that handicraft courses should be offered. Usually less than 20 per cent of the students go to institutions of higher learning, and academic courses for students who on graduation will generally go into some trade or mechanical occupation are a vital need. Cooking and sewing classes are being provided for the girls.

In the following discussion one of the club members suggested that in view of dominant industry here, it would seem as though elementary instruction in geology and mining would be a poular course if equipment and teachers could be obtained.

Horace Curnow, a member of the school board stated that it was expected in due time to complete the high school as originally planned. At present, however, the board has not yet accepted the addition to the building owing to defects that must be made good. The PWA authorities are urging an acceptance of the building with exceptions noted, so that the final PWA money may be paid to the school district. When the present construction is cleared, Curnow intimated, it will be in order for the board to consider ways and means of raising additional money to build the stage, the work shops and install bleachers in the gymnasium.

GOLDEN JUBILEE FOR N. D. G. W. OF NOR. SAN JUAN

By KATHERINE BRAITHWAITE

NORTH SAN JUAN, June 3.—The Native Daughters of the Golden West, Columbia Parlor No. 1 met for the annual official visit of the grand president, Mrs. Florence Danforth Boyle of Oroville. The parlor enjoyed a sumptuous luncheon at the historic old Corral House in French Corral and Mrs. Lily May Culver decorated with garlands of June roses from Mrs. Culver's own gardens, which blended perfectly with her antique china and silver.

Mrs. Boyle, an unusually intelligent woman, spoke brilliantly on the subject of gathering and preserving of pioneer relics for the enlightenment and education of the generations to come and the vital interest school children take in western history.

Another distinguished member present was Mrs Allison F. Watt of Grass Valley. Mrs. Watt is known as the mother of Columbia Parlor. Through her endeavors this parlor was instituted June 11, 1892 in the Odd Fellows hall at North San Juan After the hydraulic mines ceased operating this lodge held its meetings on the second floor of Mrs. Katherine Farley's lodging house at French Corral and has continued to be the home of the Columbia Parlor for the last forty five

The same old banners and the first rituals are still in use there and are carefully guarded by Mrs. Kate Farley Sullivan.

The year 1937 marks the Golden Jubilee of the N. D. G. W. Just fifty years ago in September 1886 Mrs. Lillie Reichling Dyer instituted the Ursula Parlor No. 1 at the town of Jackson in the Mother Lode country. Mrs. Dyer is still living and a very active member in this organization.

Those present at the luncheon table at the Corral House besides Mrs. Boyle and Mrs. Watts were Mrs. Elsie Swartz of Grass Valley, president of Columbia Parlor; Mrs. Lily Culver of French Corral, past president; Mrs. Fannie Moulton of French Corral, first vice president; Mrs. Sarah Reader of Sweetland, second vice president; Mrs. Lily Sciaroni of French Corral, third vice president; Mrs. Kate Farley Sullivan of French Corral, recording secretary; Mrs. Lucy Kneebone of Bridgeport, treasurer; Miss Teresa O'Connor of French Corral, marshal; Mrs. Melita Hutchinson, supervising district deputy of Nevada county; Mrs. Caroline Hotchkiss, deputy grand president for Columbia and Laurel Parlor; Mrs. Edna D. Sampson, president of general assembly of past president of the N. D. G. W.

After the luncheon the ladies motored to the beautifully decorated lodge hall where the installation of officers was held.

Slow Down, Or Else---!

Back in the old days when a corner was not a corner unless there was a saloon on it, the nation was warned that continued abuse of the drinking privilege would result in a law prohibiting any and all use of alcohol for internal purposes.

And the nation only laughed derisively, and drowned the admonitory voices in a bedlam of banging beer mugs.

What happaned after that is now history — the miserable failure of the "noble experiment", aribtrary and complete prohibition.

Today there is a deadly parallel in another type of threatening arbitrary legislation being whispered about here and there, having to do with automobiles.

It is that unless we find some way back to check the alarming increase in traffic deaths, laws will be sought to compel manufacturers to build vehicles incapable of high speed. Imagine that! Autos which simply couldn't go over 40, for example, or 50 at the most.

But surely, you say, that is ridiculous—it couldn't happen. Well, those bewhiskered gentlemen of the old corner saloon era were just as certain that the idea of a law to prohibit drinking was utterly ridiculous.

It looks as though we shall have to clamp down more heavily on speeders if we would keep another "noble experiment" in the way of legislation outlawing fast cars, from clamping down on us.

Let Europe Remember

Amid the sound and fury of Europe's war fever let us hope there are enough men who remember what horrible butchery, what futile, purposeless, profitless catastrophe war is, even for the victor.

How long they can keep the powder keg from exploding depends, ultimately, upon the length and vividness of their memory. Few realistic observers hold hopes, now, for anything more than postponement. A year, two years, three years.

One thing could prevent war, perhaps for a century or two. But that thing itself is catastrophe, of a different sort. It is chaos, and possibly revolution.

Today there is not a solvent power in Europe. All the big nations are deeply in debt, and all are spending at a drunken rate in a race for armaments. If the topheavy indebtedness led into the whirlpool of wholesale inflation, they would be well on the way to financial collapse and general disintegration.

That would stop war, but its devastation would be virtually as great as armed conflict.

The best Europe can hope for, apparently, is delay in the arrival of the inevitable clash. And chief among all the factors holding off the explosion will be, ultimately, memory of the first world war.

TWELVE RUNS FOR LAVA CAP IN SUNDAYS GAME

The game between the Lava Cap and Murchie miners played on Pioneer park baseball diamond Sunday afternoon had a good attendance of sports fans. The Lava Cap won by a 19 to 4 score.

After allowing the Lava Cap to garner three runs in the first half of the first, "Mails" White, Murchie pitcher, settled down to some real pitching. Entering the last of the fourth on the wrong end of a four to three score, Gunnelson singled, stole a second and third and then made it a ringer by stealing home with the tying run. The Lava Cap took the lead again in the sixth with another run. For some unknown reason "Mails" was pulled after the sixth inning with a score five to four against him.

The disastrous seventh opened with a new pitcher for the Murchie and ended with a total of twelve runs for the Lava Cap. A third pitcher was used by the Murchie in the eighth who allowed two more runs. The final score Lava Cap 19, Murchie 4. Hits, Lava Cap 22, Murchie 10. Milo Ungaro, star player of the Murchie team, was on the bench with an injured knee.

The lineup of teams was as follows: Murchie mine, Childress Deurs, first base, Sowden third base, Coffman, lf; Hart, ss; Wasley, cf; Gunnelson; Garric, c; "Mails" White, pitcher; Van Meter, c.

Lava Cap lineup: Thrasher, ss; Costa, 3rd b; Gibson, 2nd b; Ward, 2nd f; Youngman, lf; Biggs, 1b; Odgers, cf; Bilderback, c; Kennedy pitcher.

Local merchants gave prizes for the following feats accomplished, first single, first base stolen, first double, first triple, first fly caught, first run. Among those winning the prizes were Gibson, C. Davis, Costa Sowden, Thresher. Firms of Nevada City giving prizes were Bill Young, $1.00 in trade; pint liquor, Howard Penrose; quart liquor, Ernest Schreiber; $1.00 in trade Andrew Larsen, merchandise order, Lace House; five gallons gas, Davies Garage, greasing job, J. Shebley; Merchandise order, Grissel and Dolan.

Our experience in our own office and other structures with Murphy's Paint gives us absolute confidence that the statements of the Murphy Paint Co. are conservative. Their paint line will actually better the performance promised by them.

Contractor B. E. Brock is busy with construction on his own houses on the property on the Grass Valley highway south of Nevada City. Mr. Brock will have three modern homes when his program is completed.

How about that insulating job? Palco Redwool made from the bark of the oldest living thing, the redwood tree, will solve your insulating problem at a very nominal cost. The cost will be returned in smaller fuel bills.

Several new homes are in prospect. We will tell you about one very soon. People who have travelled a great deal realize value of this community for a home place and are glad to have such a fine locality to make their permanent residence. We should encourage such construction.

DON'T WEAR IRON COLLAR, ADVISES HENRY FORD

DETROIT, June 4.—Is there any alliance between the so-called "financial interests" and the labor union?

Recent statements made by Henry Ford, and thrown into interviews not specifically taking up this question, have raised the query as to whether he believes there is such an alliance and, if he does believe this, what might be his explanation of it.

Today, in an interview, he was asked to go fully into the subject.

"In recent statements, Mr. Ford, you have asserted that financial interests are behind the unions and that the purpose of the strikes is to kill competition. Many people do not see this connection and do not understand just what your meaning is. Will you explain fully, and also state your own attitude toward labor unions?

"Yes," Ford replied," and I am glad to explain something every employe, every mechanic, and every one else ought to know.

"BEING CORNERED"

"They are being told, these days, that a great movement has been started to improve their condition. They do not know that it is a movement to get them into a corner where they will have very little to say about it. But if they understood this movement is one phase of the fight between independent business and financially- controlled business, the picture would be clearer to them,"

This idea of labor unions and their activities as the result of clashing business interests appeared to the interviewer as a new wrinkle in the industrial fabric, and Ford was asked to "iron it out."

"Independent business," Ford said, "keeps doing two things that money-controlled business would rather put the brakes on. Independent business creates all the improvements we have in working conditions, and it raises wages not when it must, but when it can. And, of course as long as the independents do this, the other kind of business must keep step.

"Without independent competition more money would go into dividends, and less into improvements and wages. Corporation controlled businesses welcome anything that cuts down competition. They also indorse every political scheme that limits competition, because it limits wages, too. If it were not for the independents, the others would do as they please.

"ORDERS FROM N. Y."

"The difference between these two types of business is that the independents are free to go ahead whenever they can; the others must get their orders from New York. If they want to raise wages five cents an hour, permission must be granted by New York."

Ford was asked to state some facts or history that would support this last statement.

"Ever since the war," he continued, "two campaigns have been promoted in this country by the financial interests of New York—one to keep wages down, the other to put prices up. We know that, because we have been invited in. Our business is criticized because we will not go in with them on such a program. A lot of prices would go up in this country next week if they could persuade us to join them

"If they could get our help to drive workingmen into unions, some wages would immediately start to go down Don't take my word for it—just watch and see what happens if independent concerns are roped up in this country.

"Financial interests in New York have always controlled a large part of American industrial management. But control of management is not enough for them. They must control labor also, else their whole scheme fails. They must have someone who can get the employes under command just as the managers are. The financial interests cannot do this themselves—that would be too barefaced.

"CORNER THE JOBS"

"It must be done by someone who under one controlling hand. And unde one controlling hand. And what is the quickest way to do that? Simply corner the jobs that men must have. If you say to people; 'You can't get a job anywhere unless you have a card from me,' you have immense power—if you can say that. If you say: 'You can't get a work card unless you yap for it, and pay, in addition, a monthly rate for the privilege of working,' you have immense revenue.

"A monopoly of jobs in this country is just as bad as a monopoly of bread. Sometimes we catch people here in Detroit 'selling' jobs at the Ford Motor Co. by making ignorant persons believe they have a 'pull' with us. Some men have been swindled out of $25 to $100 for jobs in our factory. This was done by crooks and they were properly dealt with.

"But, now along comes another group that says: 'There are 100,000 jobs out at Ford's. If you want one of them, pay us a registration fee, and so much every month, and we will pass you in, and you can work as long as you pay us.' This group is asking us to sit still while it sells our men the jobs that have always been free. If we agreed to this, they would have complete control of American labor, a control no one has ever before had."

THE CONNECTION

"But how does this labor organization of membership fees connect with your assertion that financial interests are back of it?" Ford was asked.

"The connection between finance and strikes—or so-called strikes—is right there," he replied. "What was the great result of those strikes? Merely that numbers of men have put their neck into an iron collar. I am only trying to show them who owns the collar. Have the me gained anything by their strikes? Nothing. In most cases, even with the small pay raises they received, it will take from 22 months to five years to make up the wages they lost.

"Read the so-called 'agreements' that were reached, and see if you can detect the slightest gain for the men. Labor itself will say that it won little besides "recognition'."

"What. in your opinion, is the meaning of that recognition?" Ford was asked.

"Simply this," he replied, "the type of management that already wears the New York collar, now agrees to 'recognize' the employe who wears the same collar. After that, everything will be nice! A little group of those who control both capital and labor will sit down in New York and they will settle prices, and the will settle dividends, and they will settle wages. The mechanic, the skilled factory man, will take what is left. These are his new bosses — not the bosses who pay him wages, but the bosses who make him pay them.

COMMON SENSE

"I do not believe that the artisans and craftsmen and mechanics and all the useful workers of America can be fooled by this very long. I have worked with them for more than 50 years, and I know they have common sense enough to see the game, and get out of it.

"The Wagner Act is just one of those things that helps to fasten control upon the necks of labor. Labor doesn't see that yet. It thinks the Wagner Act helps it. All you have to do is to wait and see how it works. It fits perfectly the plans to get control of labor."

"But do you propose to put up stiff opposition to any group that undertakes to bring your workmen into labor unions?" Ford was asked.

"I have never sought to prevent our men from joining any association—religious, racial, political or social," Ford replied. "No one who believes in American freedom would do that. When our men ask about unions, I give them the same advice as when they ask about any of the other schemes that are always being aimed at men's wages. I say to them: 'First, figure out for yourself what you are going to get out of it. If you go into a union, they have got you, but what have you got?'

"We think our men ought to consider whether it is necessary for them to pay some outsider every month for the privilege of working at Ford's. Or, whether any union can do more for them than we are doing.

COULD BUILD FACTORY

"If union leaders think they can manage an automobile factory better than we can, and pay ybetter wages under better working conditions than we can, why don't they build a factory of their own and show us up? They have the capital—they have all the money they need and a lot more. The country is big; they have the men; and think of all the union customers they would have!

"If the union leaders are sincere, they should go into business themselves. If they thought out a better way to manage business, let them demonstrate what it is. If they can't do that, why do they pretend they can?

"Of course, the financial interests that use strikes as a way to build up unions, would not permit them to build new factories—big, progressive factories with everything in them that union leaders now demand. They don't want that. They want control. I have always made a better bargain for our men than an outsider could. We have never had to bargain against our men, and we don't expect to begin now.

"There is no mystery about the connection between corporation control and labor control. They are simply the two ends of the same rope. To have one, you have got to have the other. You may say as emphatically as you like, that all this does not disturb me in the least. I know the scheme is wrong, and it will not work.

"America is too big for that. But I would like to see the little fellow escape the game that the big fellows are playing with him. I would like to see him wake up."

Stop Striking Matches . . .

and waiting for water to heat

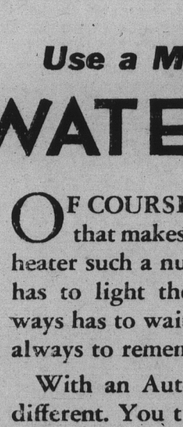
Use a Modern Automatic Gas

WATER HEATER

OF COURSE it isn't the mere striking of matches that makes the old-fashioned tank type of water heater such a nuisance. It is because someone always has to light the heater. It is because someone always has to wait for the water to heat. Someone has always to remember to turn off the water heater.

With an Automatic Gas water heater all this is different. You turn on hot water at the faucet. You learn to take its service for granted, a part of the modern living you enjoy. The first month of service is always a revelation; you wonder how you ever put up with any other kind of hot water service in your home.

For only an Automatic keeps an abundant supply of water stored hot ready for service at the turn of a faucet. There is no starting or stopping for anyone to remember. It is quiet, dependable, absolutely carefree. And all this for less cost per gallon of hot water than you pay for your present unsatisfactory hot water service.



Judge this automatic service of hot water in your home for yourself; go and see the new Automatic Gas water heaters on display in the nearest P. G. and E. office or at your dealer's store.

PEOPLE TO VOTE ON ONE HOUSE LEGISLATURE?

By RALPH H. TAYLOR

Did the movement for a one-house legislature in California gain impetus, or lose ground, as a result of the partisan bickering and frequent deadlocks between the two legislative houses during the 1937 sessions?

The question is exceedingly pertinent at this time, as reports are current that an effort will be made to submit an initiative ac to California voters at the next general election, designed to establish a one-house legislature.

At first glance, the fact that such a move is contemplated would seem to indicate that he Unicameral system is gaining new support and has made definite headway. On the other hand, inquiry develops that most of the new support for the scheme comes from leftist groups which were unsuccessful in jamming through radical and experimental legislative proposals during the session just drawing to a close.

The other side of the picture is that trends during the 1937 session revealed the inherent weaknesses in a one-house legislature system for a state such as California, where the single house would be dominated and controlled by two or three large cities, with rural and agricultural areas denied effective representation. And although the Unicameral plan doubtless gained new recruits from city malcontents, opposition to the plan from taxpaying groups, farmers and rural districts has generally increased.

If the plan is submitted to vote of the people, it is possible that the almost unanimous disapproval of rural areas, combined with the vote of city taxpayers, fearful of letting down the bars to extravagant spending and legislative experimentation, would be sufficient to insure its defeat, although such a campaign would undoubtedly precipitate one of the hottest political battles in many years.

In rural counties, the expression has been commonly heard during recent months, "Thank God for the Senate!" Such exclamations followed defeat in the senate of millions of dollars worth of special appropriations of the "pork barrel" variety, rejection of one-sided labor programs and many legislative proposals which were more visionary than practical. Yet it is unfair to condemn all assemblymen as either spendthrifts or radicals. Some of agriculture's finest champions were in the assembly, but the fact remains that on many issues the city-controlled assembly swept like a steam roller over the wishes and desires of the minority members from rural districts.

Indicating the vital need of two legislative houses, with one responsive and sympathetic to the problems of the producing areas, the assembly (dominantly urban in its membership) evidenced the following unmistakable tendencies: First, unquestioning approval of anything which carried the approval of organized labor, regardless of cost, need, fairness of workability. Second, a lavish hand in providing for the unfortunate, the unemployed and indigent, without regard to that other "forgotten man"—the fellow who pays the ADD PEOPLE Or bills. Third, a disposition to cut city tax bills at the expense of rural areas. Repeal or reduction of the sales tax, for example, would have shunted a heavier burden onto the farmer and other common property taxpayers.

The senate, on the other hand—although the most progressive and liberal upper house in many years—was more responsive to farmers and other producing groups, which create the state's wealth and share the heaviest part of the burden of making the wheels go 'round. With a majority of its members from rural districts, where familiarity with neutral laws has a tendency to temper Utopian theories, the senate likewise shied away from many of the "left turns" which appealed to urban assemblymen.

If it demonstrated nothing else, the 1937 legislature did serve to establish that two houses are safer than one and that balance of power between urban and rural areas is essential, if the rights of both groups are to be safeguarded. The partisan bickerings, although regrettable, was much preferable to the steamroller which would have been operated this year under a single house system.

BLOODY TOLL OF TRAFFIC CRASHES STILL MOUNTING

SACRAMENTO, June 4. — California's bloody record of automobile deaths still mounts, according to Ray Ingels, director of the state motor vehicle department, who points out that during the first four months of this year 964 persons lost their lives as the result of highway accidents.

In the first four months of 1936, Ingels said, 886 persons were killed in collisions, while the same period this year shows an increase of 8.8 per cent.

Accidents and their concomitants injuries, kept space with deaths, the director said, 8,972 accidents in 1937 accounting for 11,946 reported injuries, as against 8,058 accidents and 10,564 injuries last year.

"Of the fatal accidents in which the approximate speed was reported," Director Ingels declared, "it was discovered that everyone of these in which more than one person was killed, high speed was involved."

ENGINEER GATHERS DATA IN TWO MINING SUITS

Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Uren returned last Friday from San Francisco where they spent the past two months. Mr. Uren, mining engineer, has been preparing material for the suit of the Nevada Consolidated Copper company at Ely, Nevada, vs. the Copper Mines Company. The suit was brought to reopen a case tried seven years ago claiming new evidence had been discovered. It now looks as if the suit will be compromised.

He has also been working on the case, Ames vs. Newmont Mines, in regard to mineral ground at Brown's Valley where the Newmont is operating the Pennsylvania mine. The case will be tried in Marysville June 23. The Ames purchased patended land from the Southern Pacific company and are bringing suit to prevent the Newmont interests from entering their ground. It is stated the vein exposed on the Pennsylvania property is an apex entitling the company to pursue the ore. A 600 foot shaft was sunk on the Pennsylvania in 1868. Extensive development is being done by the Newmont company and paying ore has been encountered.

STUDENT PICNIC TODAY AT PIONEERS PARK

Today at the Pioneers park the Nevada City high school will hold their annual all-school picnic. The pool is open and it is expected that a large number of students will go swimming. Ice cream and lemonade will be provided by the four classes and the remainder of the food will be taken care of by the individual students. Dancing will be held in the Seaman's lodge at night.
